Owner's Representative Chosen for Central Library Project

Regina Public Library (RPL) Board Chair Sean Quinlan is pleased to announce that Colliers Project Leaders has been chosen to be the owner's representative for the Central Library renewal project.

Colliers Project Leaders was the successful proponent in a Request for Proposals (RFP) issued by the Library late last year seeking support for the Central Library project. Eight firms had expressed interest in the project.

Colliers will work in partnership with KPMG on the project.

"Colliers Project Leaders will provide our board and Library management leadership team with an experienced team, that has extensive experience in public infrastructure including public libraries," said Sean Quinlan, RPL Board Chair. "Most importantly their approach to this type of project aligns with our Board goals and vision."

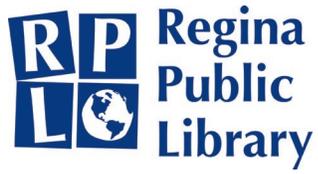

In preparing their review and recommendation for the RPL Board, Colliers Project Leaders will blend new research and information with previous Central Library studies and engineering reports.

"A central library is essential to a healthy, vibrant community. We are very excited to work with RPL in advancing this important development" said Mike Sazynski, Vice President at Colliers Project Leaders. "Our offices are within walking distance to the existing facility and we understand the important role it plays in our community."

Colliers Project Leaders will present their recommendation to the RPL board in the spring of 2020.
