Free legal supports available at library Law Fair

Free legal support will be available to all people in Regina during Regina Public Library's Law Fair at Central Library on Saturday, October 28.

Presented with the Law Society of Saskatchewan and Pro Bono Law Saskatchewan, this event will provide opportunities for members of the community to get free legal information and assistance in areas such as family law, wills and estates, information for landlords and tenants, and more.

"We will have qualified legal professionals on site to help anyone seeking legal support," said Amber Christensen, Executive Director of Central Library, "Connecting our customers with the legal information they need is just one of the ways the library supports our community."

The Law Fair will also include related presentations and discussions, free law clinics, and a trade show featuring over a dozen local law organizations ready to answer questions and offer information and support. Presentations include family law, wills and estates, information for landlords and tenants, and more.

The fair is being offered during Access to Justice Week and is one of many legal support opportunities RPL provides. Legal services, including a free family law clinic and an on-site law librarian are standard offerings available year-round.
